

Vendors:

David Fox Hog Fiddles and Such

Dulcimers designed to reflect their Appalachian heritage, with a modern look & a contemporary visual appeal. He also builds to custom orders, including banjos and mandolins. Contact him to design your own personalized instrument.

Email: hogfiddles@hotmail.com

Dwain Wilder Bear Meadow Appalachian Dulcimers

Dwain Wilder will again bring tools, materials and a workbench to the festival, equipped for repairs, refits and other mountain dulcimer work during the weekend.

If you want repairs/refits, email him at dwain@bearmeadow.com with the subject line "Bear Meadow Festival repair". And there may be time for last-minute requests also, depending on scheduled requests. <https://www.bearmeadow.com/>

Gerald Heinrich Heinrich Dulcimers

With over 50 years as a woodworker, Gerry continues to experiment with different species of wood, with a focus on reclaimed wood. He builds both teardrop and hourglass Dulcimers and has designed a hybrid which offers the sweet sound of a teardrop with the stability of an hourglass. He continues to design beautiful instruments with various color combinations and sound hole patterns. He'd love to build your next dulcimer. www.heinrichdulcimers.com

Ron and Dawn Jordan Wolf Hill Woodworking

Ron and Dawn will have stand-up and sit-down mountain dulcimer playing stands, display stands, music holders, fabric laminated cardboard mountain dulcimers, rhythm bones, and claves at the festival, plus new this year – sling music stands. They also make hammered dulcimer stands, hammers, and accessories – if interested, contact them before the festival and they will bring them. Email at bobbedardhammers@gmail.com or call/text (518) 368-8055. <https://www.wolfhillwoodworking.com/>

Ellen Pratt Dulcimer

Ellen Pratt will be back with an assortment of hand-made articles for dulcimer enthusiasts along with essentials for playing. Come browse her table for dulcimer pendants, earrings, greeting cards, ensemble arrangement books and Christmas ornaments. Additionally, Ellen will have a variety of picks, strings, lemon oil, fast fret, tuners, and other items.

www.ellenprattdulcimer.com

Workshop Leaders Sales Table

